WLB DEMANDS CONTRACT END COAL STRIKE

Asks Union and Mine Operators Put Agreement Into Writing

DEMAND IS THREAT TO PRESENT TRUCE

Government-Working Miners Slow In Returning To Their Jobs

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 25.—President Roosevelt said today he would not recognize or accept an Oct. 31 deadline set by the United Mine Workers for continued coal production in government-operated mines.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—The War Labor board threw a bombshell into the coal settlement today by demanding the union and the mine operators put an agreement on the dotted line.

This demand for signing of a formal contract apparently was intended to demonstrate full recognition of the WLB's authority.

Without that recognition, the board would have little standing, for it was set up only by executive order—not legislation—and has no plenary power except what President Roosevelt would exercise for it.

John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers, however, reckon they're working for the government, not the operators. Under the government's conditions, Lewis said the men would work until Oct. 31, though the back-to-work movement has been slow and production still is spotty.

Those same conditions, as extended by the operators, constituted a "yellow dog contract," in Lewis' words.

With Lewis Sign?
This set of facts raised a mighty question as to whether Lewis would put his signature to the same document that bears the names of the operators.

The WLB in a brief statement late yesterday, said the labor dispute had been determined finally when it directed the $21,000 strikers to accept substantially the terms of the 1941-42 contract plus a few WLB concessions that added up to pay raises of about 20 cents a day. Hence, the board figured a new contract on that basis should be signed.

This stand was announced after Interior Secretary Ickes, government operator of the mines, had referred in summoning owners to a conference today to "the controversy between the mine workers and the operators" and expressing hope it would be settled speedily.

Immediately the WLB shot back that it had made the final determination of the dispute and as far as it was concerned, there wasn't any controversy.

Behind this attitude, informed sources said, was a decision of the board that Lewis should be challenged on his Oct. 31 deadline and his stipulation that work would go forward only as long as the government runs the mines.

Equally secret but just as authoritative was the report that the WLB may approach the White House in a day or two through War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes for support in its demands that a contract be signed.

Held out as possible sanctions if the UMW refuses to sign were the possibilities of stopping checkoff of union dues or freezing the union's treasury.

Sea-Going Greek Guerrillas Add To Axis' Balkan Worries

(By JOHN H. COLBURN)
STOCKHOLM, June 25.—Sea-going Greek guerrillas have given the invasion-conscious Axis new cause for worry in the Balkans, it was disclosed today.

Photographs published in Hitler's own newspaper, the Völkischer Beobachter, and the German magazine Die Woche showed how the Axis is combating guerrillas whom the Germans described as "pirates" operating in small sailing and motor boats against Axis merchant ships in the Aegean.

For more than a year well-organized Greek and Yugoslav patriots, striking from hideouts in the wild Balkan mountains, have been reported steadily draining Axis resources at land, but this was the first indication they had taken to the sea.

The Nazis employ heavily armed patrol boats and reconnaissance seaplanes to hunt the sea guerrillas.

The photographs, purported to show Axis retribution against one "pirates' nest"—a small village bordering the Aegean. One picture showed a seaside village alight with fires set by incendiary and explosive shells.

Indicates "Axis Nerves"
Native vessels that attempt to elude the Axis patrol boats are shelled, it was asserted.

The situation thus revealed was viewed here as testifying to increasing nervousness of the Axis in seeking to detect and guard against any Allied invasion thrust against the Balkans.

It is known British and Indian forces have been concentrated on the eastern Mediterranean island of Cyprus, and Axis sources recently reported the arrival of American troops there.

Behind this island, which has well developed naval and air bases and may serve as a springboard for a Balkan attack, the British Ninth army waits in Syria and Palestine for action.

While fighting the land and sea guerrillas with one hand, the Axis has been reinforcing troops and fortifications throughout the Balkans with the other.

Berlin reports this week said large contingents of troops had been transferred from Russia to that area. Many of these were said to be units engaged in the Balkan campaign early in the war.

(In London, an unofficial source said yesterday that the Axis was pulling back some of its Mediterranean island garrisons. At the same time Ankara dispatches quoted Balkan sources as saying the Axis had 75 divisions, or approximately 1,125,000 troops, stationed in Yugoslavia, Greece, Crete and some of the larger Aegean islands.)

The packers claimed there was no assurance that they would receive federal subsidy payments to compensate them for the recent 10 per cent roll back of prices.

Cattle receipts today totaled only 800 head, against advance estimates of 1,000. Livestock men explained that receipts usually taper off toward the weekend in a parade here.

Yesterday's receipts were only 3,500, while Wednesday's totaled 8,500.

REDS REPORT NEW SUCCESS AT KHARKOV

Five Planes In German Bomber Formation Are Shot Down

NAZI TROOPS ROUTED IN LATEST ADVANCE

Germans Claim Positions Restored After Counter-Attack

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, June 25.—Five German planes out of a formation of nine fighter-escorted bombers were shot out of the sky late yesterday near Lischansk, on the Donets river bend southeast of Kharkov, and two German reconnoitering forces were smashed by a Soviet ambush in the same area, the Russian noon communique said today.

The bombers' objective was a Russian airdrome, said the war bulletin. Anti-aircraft guns forced the bombers to jettison their loads in a field, without and damage, and then Soviet fighter planes took to the air in combat, it was said, downing five of the enemy craft.

In the ground action, the Germans were permitted to come near the Russian lines and then the Soviet troops opened fire. "Most of the attacking Hitlerites were wiped out," the communique said. "The remainder retreated in disorder."

Guerrillas Active
German dispatches said a German counter attack had restored Nazi positions south of Velikie Luki 80 miles from the Latvian border, after Red army troops had opened a hole in the German lines.

Yugoslav guerrillas who attacked a German airport near Zagreb burned 30 planes and the airport installations and captured 55 Germans, the broadcast said.

The midnight communique spoke anew of action "west of Belgorod," a town northeast of Kharkov which it has been assumed was still in German hands. The bulletin said that the action was of local importance.

The German military commentator Lt. Gen. Kurt Dietmar declared in a review of the war that the Russians "now have practically lost advantage of the overwhelming superiority of numbers which they doubtless enjoyed in the early phases of the campaign."

He painted two years of war as a series of "splendid victories won by German armies on the eastern front."

In another broadcast, Dietmar acknowledged, however, that the Axis leaders had underestimated the "unfettered toughness of the Red army."

GOV. BRICKER STILL SILENT

State GOP Heads Expected To Make Presidential Endorsement Soon

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, June 25.—Gov. John W. Bricker still isn't saying whether he will seek the Republican nomination for President but indicated he would be a candidate mounted today.

An administration spokesman who requested anonymity said the Republican state committee would meet "within six weeks to endorse Bricker formally" for President.

The report served to emphasize the governor's observation to an interviewer he might speak out on national and international questions this fall and winter in a series of addresses.

The governor left last night for Milwaukee to address a meeting of the Wisconsin Bar association amid indications he would be more specific in his advocacy of United States participation in post-war world readjustment.

The governor has been criticized in some quarters for reticence in announcing a definite stand on issues regarded as worthy of the attention of a potential presidential candidate.

Before departing for Milwaukee, the governor reiterated that Ohio "may support him as its favorite son at the party's 1944 convention. He explained that an Ohioan has until 60 days before the May primary to consent to primary filing of a delegate slate pledged to him. Such consent is required in the state.

Bricker in his interview committed himself unmistakably for international participation in an international organization to preserve peace once the war is won.

Bricker did not detail the sort of organization he advocated but said it must be "worked out among the victorious nations."

High Explosives Rip Greek Port, Invasion Point In Last War

Fifty American Bombers Fly Across Mediterranean To Set Sedes Airdrome Ablaze; RAF Renews Ruhr Valley Attack, Visiting Wuppertal

By ROGER GREENE, Associated Press War Editor.
American Liberator bombers striking at the Greek port of Salonika, historic invasion gateway to the Balkans in World War I, dropped more than 250,000 pounds of explosives on the Axis-occupied Sedes airdrome yesterday in the first attack there of the war. Allied headquarters announced.

More than 50 of the big four-engined U. S. planes flew 1,000 miles round-trip across the Mediterranean to attack the key Aegean seaport. All returned safely.

"Direct hits were scored on hangars and all are believed to have been destroyed," a communique said.

From northwest African bases 300 U. S. bombers and fighters raked enemy airdromes, docks, shipping and rail targets in Sardinia, and other Allied planes attacked Sicily just off the toe of the Italian boot.

In northern Europe, RAF bombers in great force renewed the assault on Nazi war sinews in the Ruhr, smashing at the chemical center of Wuppertal.

The British air ministry has defined a "great force" as sufficient to wipe out a city of 300,000 population in a single night.

Blasting their way through stiff Nazi aerial defenses and anti-aircraft fire, the big RAF block-buster raiders unloaded hundreds of tons of bombs on such targets as the I. G. Farben Industries chemical works, the Jaeger roller bearing plants and textile factories. It was the sixth consecutive night attack on the continent.

Meanwhile, a Berlin broadcast quoted Nazi Propaganda Minister Goebbels as asserting that the Axis was keeping Vigil "day and night" to meet an Allied invasion of Europe.

Civilian Losses High
Goebbels boasted, however, that there was "no comparison between the fighting in North Africa or for Palestine and fighting for Europe."

The German high command, admitting the havoc inflicted by Allied warplanes, said the RAF heaped destruction of Wuppertal and nearby Remscheid, site of important railway shops, and added: "Losses among the population of the towns attacked are heavy."

Wuppertal is the name for the twin industrial cities of Elberfeld and Barmen on the Wupper river. Wuppertal has 400,000 population. Upwards of 1,500 tons of explosives were dropped on Barmen in an RAF raid on May 29 which virtually destroyed that sector.

Last night the attack was concentrated on Elberfeld, and an RAF communique announced that "from preliminary reports great damage appears to have been done."

Thirty-three RAF bombers were missing from the night's operations, making a six-day total of 135 Allied bombers lost in the tempestuous campaign to pulverize Adolf Hitler's Ruhr war factories.

In the Mediterranean, American four-engined bombers from the middle east raided the historic Greek port of Salonika for the first time, blasting the Sedes airdrome and leaving three hangars in flames.

Salonika, a major port on the Aegean sea, has figured in Balkan speculation as a potential target for Allied invasion forces. It has a peace-time population of 230,000.

IT MUST BE THE SILLY SEASON

Chances are the next person you talk to will try to convince you the United States is coming apart at the seams.

He will talk about race riots in Detroit, failure to get anywhere in the coal pact argument after more than three months of haggling and will mention a strike or two for good measure. He will refer to the latest item of damfoolishness from Washington, quote the latest rising price on this and that, throw in a handful of purely personal grievances for good measure and wait for you to agree with him 100 per cent that things are a mess.

There is a lot of this sort of thing going on right now—too much for our own good. To hear the croakers tell it, the United States is out on its feet and waiting for the bell. They will tell you, if they haven't been at it already, that the United States is in danger of losing the war at home. But when they get through telling you, you might mention a few cold facts for their consideration.

1. The United States, taken by surprise when Pearl Harbor broke forever the bubble of its isolation, only a year and a half ago, is still in the throes of the most violent adjustment any nation ever was called on to make in such short order.

2. While this adjustment can explain almost anything that needs to be explained, some things don't need to be explained, such as the world's greatest record of conversion from peacetime to wartime production. This is a fact that stands out before the entire world, perhaps the greatest fact, except the fighting power of Russia, in the war.

3. It would be miraculous if the shifting from place to place of millions of people and the dislocations and irritations caused by unusual circumstances didn't result in sporadic trouble here and there. The amazing thing is not that there are occasional outbreaks of trouble, but that there are so few of them. The same is true of strikes. Bad as they have been and will be, they might be worse.

4. Prices are rising; they always have risen in wartime. The country is running short of some commodities; it was the same, only worse, in the other war. Service is terrible, there are a lot of seemingly unnecessary inconveniences and obviously a lot of people who don't know what they're doing are trying to do things they shouldn't be permitted to try, etc. But there is nothing distinctive about that, either.

5. War is a test of endurance. Good intentions aren't enough. It is a time when a man must be true to himself, do what he feels is right, say what he feels is right, think what he thinks is right. The only thing under the sun that can lick the United States at this stage of the game, with the finest collection of armed force it ever has had in its history, is the United States itself.

6. The only reason for even mentioning the possibility is that the time of year sometimes called the silly season is at hand—and in the silly season the most preposterous things imaginable are wide open to discussion, on the theory that in hot weather human beings always feel a little addled anyway, until they get used to it.

ANOTHER REPRIEVE

Only important change in the coal industry as the result of the latest reprieve granted by John L. Lewis in behalf of the United Mine Workers is that the reprieves are getting longer. This time there are four whole months before the axe falls next Oct. 31.

However, even this boon to the national war effort is granted conditionally. The reprieve ends automatically if the government ceases to operate the mines. Thus, it amounts to a freeze-out of at least four months' duration for private ownership.

Perhaps this is a roundabout way of putting the owners in a squeeze that will make them bring pressure to bear on their negotiating committee for a new contract with United Mine Workers on the latter's terms. It may be assumed that under government operation, as personified by Secretary of the Interior Ickes, the miners will be given most of what they want. In fact, it looks as though the net effect of the maneuvering of the last three months and more has been to transfer a basic industry from private to public ownership by a deal so gradual and so complicated that no one knows what was happening until it had happened.

FIRST ROBIN

Like those robins that are said to stay all winter but are seen only by wishful yearners for early springtime, the campaign fund scandal is rediscovered every four years though it must have been there all the time.

A Democratic senator has discovered the Republicans are beating the bushes, the fat cats and anything else that looks as though it had money in it, and this is supposed to be scandalous. In due course of time, some Republican will discover that the Democrats are doing the same thing, and that will be scandalous, too.

Only in the years following national elections does it occur to alarmists that if there is going to be a two-party system financed by private contributions someone has to collect the money. Occasionally, it is proposed that the expense of influencing public opinion and getting out the vote be paid out of public funds, but when the horrible possibilities of doing it that way are compared with the impressive actualities of what goes on now, the latter become highly respectable, even though most costly for the faithful who get tapped. Certainly when some of the recent records of the tapping done by Democrats are recalled, they will not be too anxious to smear their hard-pressed brethren, the Republicans.

THE STARS SAY:

For Saturday, June 26

THIS DAY'S auguries are generally propitious and encouraging for the affairs of business, social, domestic and affectional relations, but with out outstanding admonition: "haste makes waste" not only in financial expenditure but in squandering physical energies or emotional forces. Attempt to force issues in any direction might be penalized and bring reactions on funds, happiness and personal harmony and progress. With conservation and good sense all along the line there should be great pleasure and happiness with substantial progress and opportunity.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be confronted by a year of definite prospects of rapid growth and exceptional progress and opportunity, but too eager and extravagant grasp of such openings might create reverse action. Shun reckless financial outlays, or romantic indulgences and conserve the mental, physical and emotional energies.

A child born on this day should have splendid abilities and energies, with opportunity and support for success and happiness in its career and its personal life, if it will curb extravagant and indulgent tendencies.

Just as we had commenced to think that possibly Washington was slipping as one day went by without any announcement of the daily change in the draft status of fathers, the next day there was a double portion dished out.

It is claimed that the helicopter will save many ships from submarines, and what we're wondering about is how many it would have saved while the Navy was making up its mind to try it.

Here is a news item that says: "A taxpayer sent the collector of internal revenue an aspirin tablet along with his return." He probably used the other eleven himself.

Probably another reason why several federal officials attended the conference of governors in Columbus was to assure the governors that the states have not been wholly abolished.

The third strike means that the striker is out. But considerable mystery enshrouds the end of the third—and nobody, seemingly, knows just what the umpire did call—that is, outside the Big Circle.

Doctor Continues Discussion of Effect

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
AS I WATCH the gyrations of the rationing boards, I am reminded of a speech which was made by a great Conservative whom I knew in Edinburgh many years ago somewhat to the following effect:

"In the city of Edinburgh, which comprises nearly a million souls, every morning there is left on every doorstep one bottle or two bottles of milk. The household may need three bottles of milk, and if that is the case, three bottles of milk are left on the doorstep."

"This intricate arrangement has been made possible by the development of capitalism. I doubt whether or not an entirely Socialistic government could deliver exactly the precise number of bottles of milk on the proper doorsteps as required by the citizens of Edinburgh every morning, Saturday and Sunday included, every day in the year."

There's a Change Due

The quotation indicates to my conservative mind that when the emergency is all over it is most unlikely that the distribution of food will be left in the hands of the bureaucrats. They have not shown any conspicuous knack in conducting an over-all paternal management of the distribution of food, nor adjusting food prices to the pocketbook level of the average American family.

Undoubtedly part of the confusion is due to the fact that Americans are unaccustomed to working on a point ration system. And that is a good augury for the future. But the way in which one commodity is advertised as very scarce one week and then the next week is so plentiful that its ration point value must be reduced in order to use up the surplus must drive a Socialistic-minded Harvard bureaucrat nuts. Again I am encouraged because it shows that the law of supply and demand still works no matter how much they attempt to caulk up the holes in the dam, and I like to live in a world of law and order.

Another less economical spectacle, and one which I think involves a mistake, is the result of putting a time limit on when a certain ration stamp can be used. The American housewife who is naturally a thrifty soul finds herself Saturday with a whole page of stamps which will be useless Monday. So she proceeds to market, buys a number of things she does not immediately need and with the help of others like her, cleans out all the grocery stores and markets, so that even the cockroaches are feeling a depression.

THOSE DEAR ROBINS

Editor, The News:
Mr. Segesman, in a recent issue of The News, was very harsh in his criticism of the robins, calling them robbers, which they are not, as they do not take by force things from others that do not belong to them. He calls them the rats of the bird-world and thinks they should all be destroyed and even commends those who shoot them.

Robins are rated by naturalists as insectivorous birds and that is why they are protected by law. And because he has never seen any of them picking insects from limbs of trees is no proof that they do not do so.

The proof that they eat insects was found by examination of the crops of many slain birds.

The earthworms they eat must be too few to do any harm as about the only chance they have of getting many is from newly spaded garden plots.

Their eating of cherries is the only really festive season they have during the year and it is brief at most and during the rest of the year they surely eat enough insects to far more than pay for all the cherries they can eat. For the last ten years they have been eating cherries from two of our trees and we have never missed what they took. They cannot eat all the cherries from a tree for more than the first two or three years of bearing and we should be willing to give them credit for the good they do the rest of the time.

The robin is the largest wild bird we have that likes to live close to our homes and is so sociable and friendly we should fully appreciate them and should treat them as friends should be treated.

The robin is the best known of any wild bird in the U. S. and were they all to be destroyed the majority of people would feel their loss more than that of any other of our birds.

So do not begrudge them their brief enjoyment of cherries during the season but plant enough trees so they can have all of them.

War Developing Turbine Engines

(By International News Service)
CHICAGO—Wartime research is speeding the development of revolutionary power plants that will propel planes and locomotives in the post-war world. The nub of this new power will be the turbine.

This was the prediction of M. W. Smith, vice president in charge of engineering for the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, writing in the trade magazine Electric Light and Power.

"From the beginning," Smith wrote, "internal combustion engines have always been the accepted source of power for planes. Later, conventional superchargers were added and now, under wartime pressure, gas turbine-driven superchargers have come forward to meet the requirements of high altitude operation."

New Form of Power
"By reason of the development work on high temperature blades, we may now look forward to eventual improvements that will make the gas turbine itself a new form of motor power for airplanes. One might predict that in the post-war world the gas turbine operating at high speeds will be made light enough to drive our commercial and cargo plane propellers through suitable gears."

The gas turbine, Smith explained, differs in this way from the conventional automobile engine; the latter produces its power by a succession of gas explosions, while the gas turbine uses a continuous expansion of gas to rotate its windmill-like blades and produce a steady power flow.

High-speed gas turbines also could power locomotives using either mechanical or electrical drives and transmissions, he said.

Smith disclosed that a steam turbine-driven locomotive, with the turbine geared directly to the drivers of the wheels, already is near the manufacture and experimental stages. Calculations made for one steam-turbine unit of 6,500 horsepower rating, he said, "indicate a saving of more than 25 per cent in pounds of steam per horsepower hour over the conventional reciprocating steam locomotive."

Michigan Reports 414 Auto Dealers Closed Last Year

DETROIT—Mortality rates were high among Michigan automobile dealers during the past year.

According to department of revenue records, a total of 414 dealers closed their doors during the 12-month period. Sales tax returns were used as a basis for the computation.

It was reported further that approximately 2,500 gasoline stations, garages and repair shops have gone out of business since March of last year.

WEAK SPOT IN THE AXIS' BALKAN DEFENSE

In Yugoslavia's mountains, just back of her key coastal regions, guerrilla units harass the axis with bold raids. Gen. Mihailovich and his patriots would help allies to establish Balkan bridgeheads. The Adriatic Sea forms a gateway to middle Europe and Berlin. Four main routes of invasion are: (1) Albanian-Yugoslav border, near Scutari; (2) Ragusa; (3) Split; (4) the area below Fiume.

BECAUSE THE ALLIES can expect considerable aid from Yugoslav forces still in the field back of the coastal mountains, the Albanian and Yugoslav coasts may be the Axis weak spot through which Allied penetration of Hitler's Fortress Europe will be tried. This map shows the routes and points of possible entry. Timed with the landing of invasion forces, the Yugoslav guerrilla armies could strike the Axis defenders from the rear. The double blow could be disastrous to the enemy. (International)

U. S. Navy Now Overhauling And Servicing Planes And Engines In Southwest Pacific

By JACK MAHON
(By International News Service)
AN ADVANCED BASE, South Pacific—The aerial arm of U. S. Naval forces in the Pacific theater will bulge and grow stronger with every passing month this summer, thanks to an idea that is beginning to bear fruit.

The idea, a child of necessity, was the construction of "plane clinics" in the area at which engines and all small parts of Navy planes could be serviced and put back in to action. One of these clinics is in operation—another will be shortly.

Between them 75 per cent—maybe more—of the planes which formerly had to be shipped back to the states will be doctored in the theater and rushed back to the wars!

Clinics To Be Complete
The clinics will have facilities "equal to the engine overhaul capacity of any Naval unit in the United States," according to Capt. N. A. Drain, Vincennes, Ind., executive officer at the plant we visited, and will be able to return ships to action fully two months quicker than they have in the past.

"The idea originated with Material Officer, Lieut. Comm. S. B. Perreault of Kansas City, Kan.," explained Capt. Drain. "It was brought about because of the distance to the states. It takes from a plane engine overhauled there and almost two months more shipping time. We'll eliminate that."

Capt. Drain then introduced Lieut.-Commander J. E. Dodson, Waco, Texas, a naval specialist assigned to engineering, who will be in charge of the new plant.

Lieut. Comdr. Dodson explained the difficulties run into because of the shortage of spare parts. "We had to visit the Pacific coast and line up skilled personnel, arrange for spare parts without putting too much of a drain on production plants there," he said. "We plan to have two units here: A seaplane repair unit and an engine overhaul unit."

To Use 850 Men
According to Lieut. Comdr. Dodson, divebombers, scout bombers, light bombers and fighter planes will be handled in addition to flying boats and seaplane engines. About 850 men will be employed at the plant we visited.

"We will also be able to repair propellers, instruments, bomb-sights and other accessories; in fact everything but the main structure of the planes," continued Dodson. "We do not contemplate complete overhaul but we will probably do a lot of work making one airplane out of two wrecks."

The commander painted a picture of things as they had been before the clinic idea stepped out of a dream into reality. "The life expectancy of Flying Boat engines was listed at 400 hours but because of lack of facilities the boys used to run them almost double; sometimes more than that. Fighters also are supposed to be overhauled every 400 hours but because of the nature of their work, fast climbing at full power, etc., this type is often burned out quickly. To say 350 hours is their limit before needing overhaul."

Will Overhaul On Spot
"Under this new set-up we will be able to overhaul them on the spot when they need it thus insuring them more effectiveness and a longer life."

The number of engines that can be serviced by these units per month is extremely gratifying to the airmen and would give old Tojo the "whammies!"

Lieut.-Commander Dodson said the new planes the men have been getting are a vast improvement over the older models and that "bugs" (irregularities) spotted earlier are gradually being wiped out. He expressed the hope that a drive would continue in the states to train air mechanics and complete satisfaction with the ones that have reached this area.

"We've had the experience of meeting boys who took air mechanics courses in the states, learned a specialty, worked on planes on ships coming out and stepped off the boat to go to work the first day they arrived," he said.

How Marines Did It
"I'd like to pay a tribute at this time to the Marine Air Group 23 and tell you something of the job they did in the early stages of Guadalcanal," concluded Lieut.-Comdr. Dodson. "Spare parts had to be flown into that area at dawn. Shipping was too open to air attack. The planes would unload in 15 minutes, load up with wounded and rush out of there. They carried men instead of engines."

As a result we fed a great many engines and planes into the South Pacific before getting anything back for overhaul. Since the bureau of supplies only allows a certain percentage of spare parts for a certain number of planes that presented a problem. You see, up there, the boys changed engines under combat conditions, bombing, etc., and had to junk many engines and parts.

"Most of the repair work was done at night, then the same crews would have to service the planes during the flights the following day!"

How did the Japs rate on this matter of maintenance of aircraft? "They have the same headaches, probably more," answered the Lieut. Comdr. "for they haven't the production facilities we have."

Fall Styles Go Ultra Feminine

NEW YORK — With all the hushed fanfare of pre-war Paris, New York's big-time designers are staging their fall openings a full month earlier than usual this year, revealing the new silhouette.

Ultra-feminine is the word for it. Though fall styles are straight and narrow cut on minimum yardage and faithful to the WPB-decreed body basic, they are artfully cut to glorify the female form divine.

Interest is concentrated above the belt, with draped necklines, square shoulders and a feminine molding of the torso the most important notes. Skirts are slim and straight, but designers achieve a graceful softness by use of tied belts, slight front fullness, fake pleats.

Nettie Rosenstein concentrates on her superb "little black dress", usually innocent of trimming but beautifully sculptured to accentuate the bustline, minimize the waist. Her models wear huge gobs of gold costume jewelry.

Foxbrowne presents a collection of Chinese-influence short dinner gowns worn with beaded ornaments that perch just above the eyebrows, in the manner of Chinese ladies of high degree. She combines vivid colors in slim one or two-piece street dresses.

Claire McCardell makes warmth her watchword for fall fashions, presents long underwear in vivid colors, reaching unashamedly to wrist and ankles and worn with short sleeved jumpers of corduroy or wool.

Sullivan's Rally Million War Workers In 65 Cities

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON—Since the Navy sponsored them in a series of talks to urge war workers to greater endeavor, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Sullivan, whose five sons were lost in the sinking of the cruiser Juneau off the Solomons last August, have been around.

On a tour from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the Great Lakes to the Gulf, they attended 235 rallies, addressing more than a million workers in 65 cities. At first they were accompanied by their daughter, Genevieve Sullivan. She now is a Wave.

In addition to personal appearances before workers, the Sullivans made radio addresses which reached millions of other persons.

The tour began in February. That month Mrs. Sullivan christened a mine-sweeper, the Tawasa, at Portland, Ore. In April she christened a destroyer named the Sullivans in honor of her sons at San Francisco.

It's Women vs Uncle Sam In Hairpin Priority Battle

(By United Press)
CHICAGO—The government said hairpins can't be more than 1 3/4 inches long. Mrs. Goldberg said they have to be 2 inches long. The government said we gotta save steel. Mrs. Goldberg said we gotta save women's morale.

Hairpins are now 2 inches long. And the hairpin industry enjoys an AA-1 priority rating. As president of the Hump Hairpin Co., Mrs. Sol H. Goldberg isn't one to let women's hair down—notwithstanding the war, the government and Veronica Lake. "The people in charge," she said, "had to be educated to the importance of hairpins. What men can't understand is that hairpins, far from being a triviality, are an essential part of women's apparel." Output Cut 75 P. C. She wasn't alone in the battle of the hairpins, but she was a leader. "We like to think," she said, "that ours is the biggest hairpin manufacturing company." Her husband, who died three years ago, was known as "the hairpin king." There are eight other hairpin firms and in 1941 they consumed a total of 7,500 tons of steel. Now they are restricted to 25 per cent of this amount, or 1,85 tons. Mrs. Goldberg doesn't worry about this, since her plant now makes a fuse for projectiles, as much as she does the popular misconception that no hairpins whatsoever are being made. Bronze and black hairpins and bobby pins still are being manufactured, she emphasized. It is true that limitations have been placed on the length, quantity, gage and finish of hairpins, but civilization hasn't collapsed entirely. "Black Market," Too Another worry that is turning Mrs. Goldberg's hair gray—and gray hairpins are out, of course—is the "black market" in hairpins. Frizzled women from the hills of the Ozarks to the canyons of Manhattan send her plaintive letters and defaced hairpin placards revealing profiteering of from 500 to 800 per cent. Unscrupulous retailers take cards holding 18 hairpins selling for five cents, cut them into three equal parts containing six hairpins each, and sell each part for 15 cents—for a total of 45 cents on a 5 cent article. And there are many other such practices. When Mrs. Goldberg thinks of this she pats her upswipt coiffure neater, entrenches her bobby pins deeper and says patriotically: "It's up to us to make fewer hairpins go further."

Feeding The Family Was Cinch In 1820

(By United Press)
BUFFALO—If today's housewife—worrying how to put plenty of proteins on the table with prices at their current level—were given her choice of returning to another era, she probably would choose the year 1820. Here are the prices at that time for fat-containing commodities:
Beef, per lb. 7 cents
Veal, per lb. 7 cents
Pork, per lb. 11 cents
Mutton and Lamb, per lb. 5 to 7 cents
Butter, per lb. 15 1/2 cents
Eggs, per doz. 12 1/2 cents
The figures are part of Gen. Peter Buell Porter's record of expenditures for the year 1820, now in possession of Preston Buell Porter, vice president of Remington-Rand, Inc.

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA
Coincidence hasn't stretched its long arm much further than this lately.
This true tall story concerns Sgt. Jack C. Percy, of Los Angeles, former prop man with 20th Century-Fox, Corp. Robert Kennedy, Jr., of Newark, N. J., and a battered water canteen.
Percy is attached to an air corps motion picture unit. Kennedy lives in the tent next to his. Finding his canteen empty one night recently, Percy went to the next tent for a drink.
Kennedy handed him his canteen. Percy started in amazement at some letters etched into it—J. P. U. S. A. A. E. F., France.
Percy recognized the canteen as the one he had carried through five major engagements in World war I. It had been issued to Kennedy when he entered the service.

Operators Protest Mine Status

Mine-wage controversy was thrown into new turmoil when the coal mine operators called on the War Labor board to restore the government-operated mines to private operation. The new hitch came as the nation's 540,000 miners were preparing to return to work under the truce lasting until Oct. 31. The appeal to the WLB and also to President Roosevelt was made by R. L. Ireland, Jr. and Edward R. Burke, spokesmen for the two groups comprising the Appalachian conference. Burke, right, and Ireland, center, are shown with Harry Moses, representing the "captive" coal mines, leaving the White House after protesting to President Roosevelt.—(International.)

Ohio Miners Asked To Return to Work

(By Associated Press)
BELLAIRE, June 25.—Adolph Pacifico, vice president of District 6, United Mine Workers, said he would meet today with union field representatives in an attempt to induce complete return of Ohio's coal miners to the pits.
Unionists in at least 10 eastern Ohio mines employing about 6,000 men voted yesterday not to resume work.

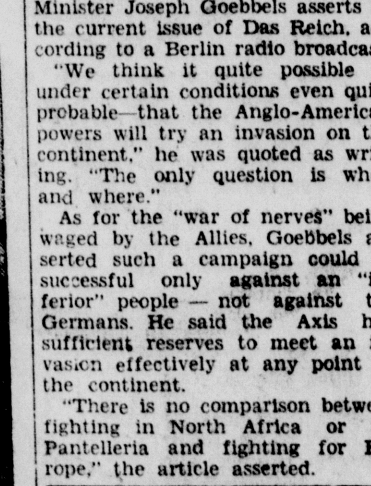

One official estimated only about 15 per cent of the 9,000 miners in eastern Ohio had returned to their jobs, and Hocking valley reports indicated only half of the workers there had gone back. Ohio has about 21,000 coal miners. Eight of 17 mines in the Athens district were operating today with about 2,500 men on the job out of 5,000 employed normally.
Pacifico said the men were reluctant to resume production of war-vital coal because "the government is not actually operating the mines." He added "the men would be glad to return if the government would take over and run the mines instead of leaving them in the hands of operators."
Ira Nelson, UMW organizer at Dover, reported that some 1,500 miners in Tuscarawas county would return to the pits by the first of next week.
Dick Blazy, president of the UMW local at Powhatan mine, the state's largest employing 1,030 men, said about 400 attended yesterday's meeting and voted unanimously not to return. He said the men expressed dissatisfaction over lack of assurance that any negotiated pay increase would be retroactive to the date of expiration of the old contract.

Goebbels Says Axis Ready For Attack
(By Associated Press)
The Axis is prepared "day and night" to meet an Allied invasion of Europe, German Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels asserts in the current issue of Das Reich, according to a Berlin radio broadcast.
"We think it quite possible—under certain conditions even quite probable—that the Anglo-American powers will try an invasion on the continent," he was quoted as writing. "The only question is when and where."
As for the "war of nerves" being waged by the Allies, Goebbels asserted such a campaign could be successful only against an "inferior" people—not against the Germans. He said the Axis had sufficient reserves to meet an invasion effectively at any point on the continent.
"There is no comparison between fighting in North Africa or for Pantelleria and fighting for Europe," the article asserted.

W. STATE TAVERN CLOSED BY CHIEF

Chief of Police Ralph Stoffer late yesterday closed the Rainbow grill, 161 W. State st., following the arrest of two men and two women early yesterday morning on morals charges.

The chief said the grill has been run lately by Robert J. Englert, operating on a license owned by the former owner, Bruce Jackson. Englert was told to close the bar until he obtained a liquor license of his own.

Acting upon the complaint of neighbors, police went to the tavern at 2:30 a. m. Thursday where they found Mrs. Violet Taylor, 24, of Lisbon, and Miss Sarah Schultz, 24, of Leontonia, and Lawrence Howard, 25, of Wilson st., and George W. Mosby, 21, of Lisbon. Both men are colored.

Each pleaded guilty to charges of fornication, filed by Chief Stoffer, when given hearings before Mayor R. R. Johnson and drew fines of $50 and costs. The women were given 90-day jail sentences and Mosby 30 days in jail when they failed to pay their fines. Howard paid his fine and was released.

Streamlined Highway Jobs For Post-War Programs Advocated

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, June 25.—Post-war construction of a number of toll roads similar to the Pennsylvania turnpike was predicted by a nationally-known engineer at a highway planning conference here attended by more than 900 civic, county and state representatives.
Charles M. Upham of Washington, engineer-director of the American Road Builders association told the conference yesterday that the highspeed thoroughfares would be popular in the United States after the war.

"A 50 per cent increase in automobile traffic above the peak year ever recorded in America" was foreseen by Upham.

Hal G. Sours, state highway director, urged creation of local committees to plan a streamlined road construction program, geared to needs of their communities, which he said would be used in drafting a state-wide building pattern after the return of peace.

Murray D. Shaffer of Mansfield, the department's chief engineer, said that the state's construction program included 900 projects involving expenditure of $150,000,000, much of it in and near metropolitan areas.

There are almost 250 Fiji Islands.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

A "Jeep" costs the army $600. Soldiers call them "Four-by-Fours," but the official name is reconnaissance car. "Jeeps" can maintain a speed of 45 miles an hour, transport a half ton of supplies or six men.

We need thousands of these practical little cars. You and 47 of your neighbors buying an $18.75 War Bond can buy one Jeep. Do it today, for the army needs thousands of them. Top the quota in your county and buy War Bonds every pay day.

Chinese Battle Japs On Salween River Front

Gallant Chinese Allies, fighting without sufficient equipment and supplies, nevertheless still are battling the Japs to a standstill. These first photos from the Salween river front in Yunnan province show Chinese troops as they fought against 50,000 attacking Jap soldiers near the Burma border. Using foliage as camouflage, Chinese soldiers crouch in their trenches to repel an attack, top, as a shell explodes, right. Price of victory is reflected in the file of wounded Chinese, lower photo, shown moving toward the rear, some in litters, others hobbling along on crude crutches. (International Soundphoto)

Soy Bean Producers Stretch Rationed Diets, Tests Show

(By United Press)
MINNEAPOLIS — When Hitler, many years ago, made out his list of necessities for his war larder, he included guns, planes, essential metals, and—soybeans.

Why the unimportant soybean? Because in this oriental immigrant he found paint for warships, lubricants for war machines, nitrocellulose for bombs, protein for plastics and, most of all—an almost perfect food for his troops and war workers.

The United Nations have given Hitler credit for many innovations and to those must be added soybeans. A recently-captured German army cookbook reveals that the Nazis have no less than 278 recipes in which soys play the major role.

But U. S. Army dietitians also have found use for the soybean. Through intensive research they have found use for the soybean about three times the protein content of meat, is an excellent source of vitamins and mineral salts, produces energy with a minimum of fatigue, builds nerves, and is alkaline in reaction.

Bean Now De-bittered
Now with armed forces' diets firmly esconced in the use of soys the American housewife has her chance to a helping of health.

According to a food substitute study by Northwestern National Life Insurance Co., the soy bean, in years ago, never appealed to the discriminating Yankee palate. After many years of research American scientists found that through a heat debittering process the bean loses its objectionable taste and acquires a pleasant, nutty flavor.

Housewives now may add soy flour, soy grits or flakes in place of about one-tenth of the other dry ingredients with almost no change in the taste of the dish. Home-makers may also "stretch" a given amount of meat into considerably more stew, meat loaf, sausage or meat pie, the survey shows.

Perhaps the differences in soy flour, grits and flakes may be explained this way: Raw soybeans are cleaned and hulled, heat processed and de-bittered. Then ground, the coarsest grind is called flakes, the next several degrees of fineness are called grits, and the finest grind is flour.

Retail Efforts Under Way
All three are identical in food value, but the flour mixes more readily with wheat flour in bread and cake, while grits or flakes, because of their bulk, are more desirable in cooked cereals, cornmeal, cookies and potatoes.

Both full-fat and low-fat soy flour are available. Full-fat contains the natural oil content of the beans, while from the low-fat nearly all the oil has been removed and it is therefore a somewhat cheaper source of protein, the survey points out.

Health-food stores have been carrying soy products in bulk for many years, but they have not been available at low prices. Efforts now are under way to insure adequate wholesale and retail distribution of soy products.

European people whose habitually leaner diets have long appreciated the value of soybeans, now command a greater majority of soy products by way of Lend-Lease. Americans, stirred by rationing restrictions, also are becoming increasingly aware of the food value in soy products.

ALBANY, Cal.—The local annual prize for the pullet that made the best showing during the past year went to a Brahma hen, which had also three separate domestic strains in her make-up. The Brahma hen is a native of China, where they are bred for meat purposes. She won on the strength of a three-quarter-ounce "super" egg that she laid and the prediction that she would become a 12-pound hen. She is owned by 11-year-old Adelaide Engelking.

Basic Facts About Withholding Tax

(Prepared by U. S. Treasury Department)

Q—I am a married man with one child and am now putting 10 per cent of my pay in War Bonds and 5 per cent after subtracting withholding exemption for the Victory tax. How can I pay the additional 20 per cent withholding tax on top of that 15 per cent and still have enough to live on?

A—In the first place your 20 per cent withholding tax includes your Victory tax. If you are married and have one child, your exemptions will bring your tax down to approximately 8 per cent. For instance, if your salary or wage is $50 per week, your withholding tax will be approximately $4 per week, and instead of paying an annual income tax of approximately $212 in a lump sum, you are paying it at the rate of $4 weekly.

Q—Suppose when I make my return next March I find my employer has withheld more than enough money to cover my tax. Will the excess be refunded to me?

A—It will either be refunded to you or credited against other income taxes due from you.

Q—Suppose my employer withholds tax from my wages, but does not turn it over to the government. What protection have I?

A—The employer is liable for the payment of the tax and must furnish the employee with a written statement showing the amount of tax deducted. Penalties are imposed upon employers for failure to make and file returns or pay the tax within the time prescribed by law.

Q—Do I have to wait until the end of January to know how much of wages my employer holds out?

A—Yes, for the official notice or receipt unless your services with your employer are terminated before the end of the calendar year.

Q—What happens if the receipt the employer gives me gets lost or destroyed?

A—You should make application to your employer for a copy of the receipt.

Q—Does it make any difference if I change jobs several times during the year?

A—No. Each employer is required to withhold the tax from wage payments made to you.

Double Omen of Victory Marks Marine Flag Rites

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC (Delayed)—Marine Sgt. Irwin S. Bradford of Laurel, Miss., tells of a spectacular double omen of victory which greeted the first raising of the Stars and Stripes by a Marine Corps unit here. As colors sounded, a cloud formation split the rays of the sunrise into a gigantic "V."

Then to the strains of the national anthem, a flock of geese in perfect "V" formation appeared in the east, and as if directed by unseen hands, changed course to fly directly over the flagpole.

Italy Faces Heavy Assault By Allies

And Allied casualties are comparatively few. The United States air forces already have done a job of bombing that has been unequalled in this war.

Allies Are Ready

"In my opinion, the African campaign was not a second front.
It was a first front, for it kept the Mediterranean open, exposed the Axis' Achilles heel—Italy—to attack, and established a shelf of aggression 2,500 miles long which a death blow can be launched at the Axis. A large, well-trained force is ready and they have terrific supplies."

Here are some of the thoughts of a war correspondent as he retraced a blood-stained route from Spain to the Balkans and the middle east in an interview here:

"It was in Spain that I first saw the German 88 mm. gun. And up until nine months ago it was the best gun in Africa.

"The American 60 mm and 155 mm guns changed all this. It was the 155's which pounded Mat-teur to pieces and really opened the gateway for the final American drive.

"After Spain, I went to Rome and was there when Mussolini announced he would not go into the war immediately. At that moment he reached the height of his popularity.

"The campaign in Greece was horrible. One of the worst days was an Easter Sunday near a tiny village on the river Lethe. The villagers were cooking their Easter lamb. Then the bombers came—150 of them by twos and threes, steadily for an hour and a half until there was little or nothing left.

"After returning to Egypt and moving back and forth across the desert, the turn of the war finally came at Alamain.

"The British by then had learned all of the German tricks. They had achieved the coordination of the Africa corps. Man for man they were more courageous and better fighters than the Germans."

Fairfield, New Waterford Road Project Completed

LISBON, June 25.—Completion of the bituminous surfacing of a section of Route 558, connecting East Fairfield and New Waterford, was announced today by E. O. Harsh,

The road was originally constructed under WPA two years ago, but was never surfaced. Completion of the project provides an improved highway from East Palestine to Lisbon.

Resident Engineer George Gonzales said work of pouring concrete for a section of State Route 165, east of Unity, was begun this morning.

The two-mile cutoff which the highway department expects to have completed by Sept. 1, will be a 24-foot concrete road connecting with a section completed by the Pennsylvania state highway department two years ago.

Eastern Motorists Fail To Renew Tax Stamps For Autos

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Senator Mead (D-NY) today labeled the annual $5 use tax on automobiles a "pay-as-you-don't-go plan," at least for eastern motorists, and said he would ask the treasury to withhold enforcement until Congress decides whether the levy should be repealed.

The new stickers are supposed to be on the windshields of all cars and trucks operated after next Wednesday, but the postal employment with their sale have decided that the only way to start them moving would be to ration them, like shoes. In other words, business has not been good.

Several eastern lawmakers agreed with Mead that taxation without transportation is going to be pretty hard to explain to their foot weary constituents. The value of gasoline ration coupons is smaller in the east than in other parts of the country, and in the seaboard states from Virginia north all pleasure driving is forbidden.

"It looks like a faulty proposition to me," Mead told an interviewer.
"It's incongruous. On one hand we're asking people not to use their automobiles, while on the other hand we're taxing their use."

Senator Brewster (R-Me) called the tax "unjust and unfair" under present conditions and said it was arousing sectional ill-feelings.

THAT MAN IS MINE by May Christie

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

Mournfully the party returned to the clubhouse to drink the magnum of champagne Mr Willard had ordered for the winning toast.

Stingaree's owner excused himself, but told them to go on to the clubhouse.

Hank walked with Lotus and the man named Jinky. Ann with Jim, Julia with Roger Upton and Vince.

A little later Hank excused himself from the others, saying he was going to place a bet on a minor race.

In the crowded clubhouse, it was easy for Ann to slip away too. She stealthily followed Hank.

He didn't go near the parimutuel windows now. He sauntered toward the grandstand. Sometimes he turned and looked back of him.

Ann however, managed that he did not see that she was following him.

So to the rear of the grandstand. Hank paused to light a cigarette. She slipped behind a tree. Watched him proceed farther, then turn in at a door far to the rear of the grandstand.

She hurried after him. The door led down a small passage. Turning to the left at the end of it, she saw Hank walk towards a tiny creature dressed in a suit of day clothes.

Steve, the jockey! she thought swiftly, skirting the wooden stanchions, and keeping well out of sight.

She was so close to them now that she could hear Hank say: "Steve, you kept your end! I'm keeping mine! Here you are!" He handed the jockey an envelope.

Steve grabbed it and pocketed it. "Thanks!" he replied. "Serves the old miser right. He never even gives me a bonus when I win for him!"

Recklessly Ann stepped from behind her wooden pillar. Hank had his back to her, but the jockey saw her, and ran.

Hank whirled about, then. The expression on his face was evil when he saw Ann.

"You crook!" gasped Ann. "You dirty crook—bribing the jockey!" There was a terrible pause.

"I saw you pay him off!" she accused Hank.

His face twisted into an expression so malevolent that he seemed, at that moment, unrecognizable. A devil to Ann.

"If you know what's healthy for you," he hissed, "you'll keep your mouth shut! You did not see anything at all! Otherwise my crowd will take care of you! Wherever you go, wherever you hide, they will find you and get you!"

She turned faint, half slumped against him. He caught her in his arms.

It was not the hold of love, but hatred, desperation. Yet to Jim Prent, who had just collided with the terrified running jockey—to Jim who had followed her when she left the clubhouse on the heels of Hank, remembering the tip she had given him on the race, it was proof positive of their collusion.

"You crook! Let me go!" gasped Ann.

Hank stepped back, unloosing his hold. He had had one fleeting glimpse of Jim and the latter turned on his heel and departed. It pleased him that the flyer had witnessed Ann in his arms, here in the deserted room under the grandstand.

Ann hadn't seen Jim. The flyer was so high-and-mighty, Hank figured, that he wouldn't condescend to challenge Ann about what certainly looked like a lovers' assignation.

If she told the truth to Jim—that she had followed him here to spy on him and charge him with bribery—her story would sound like a feeble alibi now! A girl didn't fall into a man's arms (or so it would seem to Jim) unless she were his sweetheart, which the flyer would assuredly think, even if she revealed what she had seen and heard between Hank and the jockey.

But she wouldn't reveal anything—not after the way she'd received the threats he'd just made!

That pleased Hank doubly. That she'd practically fainted from shock.

None the less, he would go while the going was good. It was unhealthy to remain here. According to his code, you couldn't trust a woman. And the ratty little jockey, Steve, might lose his head and raise a howl when he discovered that the envelope he had slipped him only contained half of the promised reward!

A couple of members of the gang were waiting for him in the car at the race-ground gates. He'd hurry there. Suggest heading South for Key West, where they'd lie low until that boat from Cuba came in. With the haul they'd got today, it really would be healthier to get out of the States for a bit. They'd be beyond reach if the girl did tell Mr. Willard.

"Remember what I said!" Hank snarled. "Wherever you are, the gang'll get you if you don't keep your mouth shut!"

"I hate you and I despise you!" panted Ann. "I hate myself for ever having had anything to do with you, you crook!"

The man laughed. "Have a care. I shall say that you have been my mistress all these months—that you are furious because I have discarded you—if it reaches my ears that you have said anything derogatory about me at all!"

Her breast rose and fell. But she saw there was purpose as well as the devil in his slow eyes. She turned and left him, her high heels clicking rapidly down the cement corridor, mingling with the echo of his sneering laugh.

"I must tell Mr. Willard at once," thought Ann. "All these people losing their money because the race was crooked—because the favorite was pulled in the home stretch by the bribed jockey!"

But by the time Ann had rejoined her party in the clubhouse, the pro's of this were hard put to it by the con's! Hank would deny her story, countering it with one ruinous to her character! And certainly the jockey would deny everything!

Her name had already been linked unpleasantly with Hank, in Jim's mind. Hadn't Hank already been accused of cheating with her at the roulette table?

Then if Hank were convicted of "fixing" the race with the jockey, she would not only have it on her mind that she had sent a man to prison, but her own reputation would be irretrievably besmirched.

Which way you looked at it, her position was hateful now. Rejoining her party at the clubhouse, she saw that Stingaree's owner was with them. He was saying to his wife, and Vince and Jim: "I've had two of the finest vets in America go over the horse, and they can't find a thing the matter! It's a complete mystery!"

Ann had almost overwhelming impulse to take Jim aside. To tell him all. He would back her up in doing the right thing, the brave thing.

At that psychological moment, his eyes met hers. His were cold. Her heart went into a tail-spin as she saw, in that long, penetrating look at her, that the flyer's handsome eyes looked definitely antagonistic.

What had she done? Because she had told him not to bet on Stingaree, and her advice had proven right, did he think she was in league with Hank? Before the big race he had looked surprised at seeing her chatting with Hank, after being linked so unpleasantly with him in last night's gambling incident.

She remembered she had flushed a little and looked caught. With all her poise as a model, it was ironical that, with this man she loved, she blushed like a school girl.

When they were drinking a toast to the favorite, too, before the race, and because she had bet on another horse, she had whispered to Jim: "I feel like a heel!"

He had lost $5 because he had ignored her tip. She hadn't won either. But it wasn't a question, she decided of their individual bets at all.

Perhaps Lotus Willard had been shooting off some poisoned barb? She was supposed to be interested in Jim. Everybody in her immediate circle (with the exception of her husband—or maybe he didn't care) knew that Lotus would stick at very little to nail the man of her latest fancy.

A violent distaste for so-called "Society" came over Ann. Roger Upton was drinking champagne with Julia, who looked prettier and more animated than Ann had ever seen her. "And he has one foot in the divorce court!" she thought.

If Julia saw as much of Cafe Society as she (Ann) did, it would make her as sick as some of her unlucky air-passengers.

LOS ANGELES — Largely as a result of blackout and dimout regulations, pedestrian deaths rose 60 per cent in this city during the month of May as against May of last year. Faulty walking practices at night were blamed for most of the casualties. Pedestrians have been warned only to cross the streets at the most illuminated intersections.

Bliss Suffers First Loss, 1-0, At Hands Of Scottmen

Scotts Score Lone Run In Ninth Inning; Recreation Defeats Demings 8 To 0

The undefeated Bliss team was shaken on its Class A league pedestal last night when the Scottmen managed to snatch a 1 to 0 win over the Bliss stars who, despite the loss, still are on top in the Class A loop so far as the first round of play goes.

Francis Lanny, High school lad who hurled for Scotts, allowed the opposition batters only two hits, while Scotts collected five hits from Ritchie, on the mound for the Bliss.

It was a tight game all the way, with Scotts pushing across the lone run of the game in the ninth inning.

NEW YORK, June 25.—Milo Candini, the American league's leading pitcher (won 7 lost 0), hasn't much more chance of being picked for the All Star game at Philly June 13 than Hank Gowdy had last year when he had the same sort of record. Story is that not even Candini's manager, Ossie Bluege, named him on his ballot.

HOW TIMES CHANGE
Nolly Sams, Charleston, S. C., Evening Post sports writer and president of Charleston's Victory baseball league, wants it understood that his is no small-change circuit. Because of the scarcity of nickels, Nolly ordered his ticket sellers to jump the grandstand price from 35 to 40 cents, and so far there hasn't been a single complaint about the increase.

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE
Every time he plays a game without hitting a homer, Joe Medwick is losing ground in his "feud" with Johnny Mize that began when they both were Cardinals. Mize caught up with Joe at the 184 home run mark before he started slugging 'em for the Navy. Figure this one out—on the same day that Babe Ruth proclaimed the major leagues won't finish the season because the club owners are losing too much dough, the Giants and Dodgers finished their first round with a total paid attendance of $6,643 for five games.

Talbert beat Philip Klein of Cincinnati, 6-1, 6-0, yesterday and Chalmers Ratliff eliminated Larry Tinker of Cincinnati, 6-2, 6-1.

In the women's singles quarter-finals, Catherine Wolf of South Bend, Ind., eliminated Dorothy Conroy Conroy of Cincinnati, 6-0, 6-3. Nancy Corbett of Chicago beat Joanne Dunn of Des Moines, Ia., 6-2, 6-0. Pauline Betz of Los Angeles defeated Jane Wagner of Cincinnati, 6-0, 6-1. Tigers Keep Tribe Out of Third Place By Winning 7 to 4

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, June 25.—The Cleveland Indians meet their favorite opponent tonight—Chicago's White Sox, the team they have beaten nine times in 11 starts. Southpaw Al Smith hurls the series opener against a former Tribal moundman, Thornton (Lefty) Lee.

Yesterday's 7 to 4 loss to the Detroit Tigers cost the Redskins a chance to move back into third place and left them a half game behind the Boston Red Sox and in a virtual tie with the Bengals.

Jim Bagby failed to display his usual effectiveness against Detroit and was chased in the second inning when the Tigers tallied four times. Allie Reynolds was the victim of the other three markers. Virgil (Fire) Trucks went the distance for Detroit and scattered 11 hits.

Oris Hockett, the league's second best batter, started the game with his first home run of the year. Successive doubles by Buddy Rosar and Mike Rocco produced another tally in the second but Detroit took the lead with the four-run blast against Bagby in their half of the same stanza.

Reynolds gave the Tigers their other three runs in the sixth. The Indians picked up their third marker in the eighth on singles by Roy Cullenbine, Ken Keltner and Rocco and the last one in the ninth on Russ Peters' circuit smash with two out.

AKRON WILL PLAY AT LAKE SUNDAY

Brantfield To Pitch Last Game for Placencia; To Report to Navy

The Lake Placencia baseball team will meet the Akron Goodrich nine on the Lake's diamond Sunday. The Goodrich team has won one game and lost one game to date. The Goodrich and Placencia teams have met one common opponent this season. Goodrich defeated Cuyahoga Falls Moose, 7 to 2; while the Placencia team defeated the Moose, 9 to 2. The Barborton Lotter last week beat the Akron Goodrich team by the score of 1 to 0. Art Boyes, star pitcher of the Goodrich club, lost this game although he allowed Barborton only two hits.

Art Boyes, or Ted Boyes, will pitch for Akron, with Depello doing the catching.

Earl Brantfield will be on the mound for Lake Placencia. This will be the final game for Brantfield this year, as he is to report at Duke University, Durham, N. C., next Thursday, for training in the Naval reserves. Simpson will be behind the plate for Placencia.

IOWA CITY, Ia.—Charles Uknes, fullback on the University of Iowa's 1942 eleven, will be given a medical discharge from the Marine Corps because of a heart disorder, it has been learned.

Soldiers Patrol Stadium At Detroit-Indian Game

Steel-helmeted troops march into Briggs stadium, Detroit, during the Cleveland-Detroit baseball game there to prevent any further outbreak of race rioting which took the lives of 27 persons in the Detroit area. Several hundred soldiers with fixed bayonets patrolled the stadium and sat in the stands with their rifles between their knees. The rioting caused cancellation of the first game of the current Detroit-Cleveland series. (International)

'New' London Aims To Get Rid Of Its "City Slickers"

BY ROBERT RICHARDS

United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON—It may take 150 years to accomplish, but British planners are projecting big things for the greater postwar London area, with the accent on community life and eliminating the ideas of a "big city."

A model of the plan, exhibited at the National Art Gallery, is drawing hundreds of spectators daily to see what the Regional Reconstruction Committee advocates. The main objective is to get rid of "city slickers" and return the people to the simple community life in which a man takes pride in the place where he lives.

The planners think it is vital that British people in the future be identified with a community in which stores, places of business, schools and recreation facilities all will be in the same unit.

Plan Space Near Railways

The committee realizes it can't move railways so it is planning to move the adjoining slum sections and convert the railroads into green strips which "infiltrate" through London giving breathing space to city-bound folk and providing a place for new trees to grow to take the place of those sacrificed in the war effort.

The committee also has hopes of putting hospitals or sanatoriums on the green strips or perhaps use the space vacated by the slums for vegetable gardens.

Under the plan, industry would be divided into two types—factories that necessarily are eyesores or create bad odors will be moved into special areas more suitable for them, while the less unpleasant factories will be included in the general scheme of living.

The planners do not want straight roads. They feel straight-ness is "inhuman" and nerve-racking. They also think the winding roads express the true character of England and they wish to retain them. However, there will be three rings of high-speed freight roads through the London area. They will be for heavy and fast transportation and no pedestrians or cyclists will be permitted to use them. They plan to put those roads as near as possible to the railroads.

To Build New Airfield

A new airfield will be built two miles from the city's center and it will handle all continental air traffic arriving in Britain from all parts of Europe. Transcontinental and trans-oceanic planes will be handled from fields northeast and west of London. Passengers arriving from the United States and other overseas lands will be placed into "taxi planes" and sped to the center of London.

The planners are not discussing whether people will live in apartments or individual houses or whether the buildings should exceed the present 60 feet in height.

"We are laying the groundwork and the people who follow must decide these problems," a committee spokesman said. He added that if a discussion of tall buildings problem came up the people most probably would forget the main issues in heated arguments. He also emphasized the plan is not based on bomb damaged sections.

"In London's 850 square miles area you would be amazed at the actual small amount of bomb damage," he said.

REDS AND PIRATES WILL OPEN SERIES

(By Associated Press)

CINCINNATI, June 25.—Something that befuddled by their inability to win more than one game of three from the St. Louis Cardinals, the Cincinnati Reds entertain the Pittsburgh Pirates today.

Johnny Vander Meer is Manager Bill McKechnie's pitcher for the day, while Frankie Frisch is depending on Max Butcher.

The Cardinals had little trouble disposing of Bucky Walters and the Reds in yesterday's swing shift game. Harry Gumbert, who used to be an easy mark for the Reds, held them under control while his team piled up a 5-1 score.

Led by Whitey Kurowski, who got a home run and a double, and Stan Musial, with a double and triple, the Cards made 10 hits off Walters, Vernon Stone and Jack Nienies.

Harry Walker opened the first inning with a single and scored on Musial's triple, and in the fourth Kurowski knocked in a run with a double and the Cards scored again on three passes and a force play.

The Reds finally tallied in the ninth on Woody Williams' double and Frank McCormick's single.

NEW YORK — Eleven football players and four basketball stars from Manhattan college, including the captains-elect of both squads, have joined the Marine Reserves and are awaiting calls to "boot" camp.

RIP SEWELL TOPS THIS YEAR; HURLS NINE VICTORIES

Last Year He Led National League In Number of Defeats

By JUDSON BAILEY

Associated Press Sports Writer
Truett Banks Sewell led the National league in defeats last year, but this season has a chance to lead it in victories.

To date "Rip" has won nine games and has been beaten only twice—once by one run and another time when his Pittsburgh Pirates were shut out.

This is a record matched by no other pitcher in the senior circuit, and seems to prove that at the age of 35, when most pitchers have gone over the hill, Sewell is still climbing.

The Dodgers were set down by the New York Giants 3-1 after winning the first five games of a six-game series and lost ground not only to the encroaching Pirates but also to the first place St. Louis Cardinals, who crushed the Cincinnati Reds 5-1 in a morning game.

The Phillies battered the Boston Braves with 16 hits to win a 12-5 decision and split their six-game series.

In the American league the two top clubs, New York and Washington, were idle but their leading rivals both were beaten. The Philadelphia Athletics overpowered the Boston Red Sox 8-3, and the Detroit Tigers whipped the Cleveland Indians 7-4.

The Chicago White Sox and St. Louis Browns divided a double-header with Vern Stephens hitting a single with the bases loaded in the tenth inning of the opener to give the Browns an 8-7 victory and the Sox retaliating with a 9-2 verdict in the nightcap.

REVERSE REVIEW--SERVICEMEN DO THE INSPECTING

SOLDIERS, SAILORS AND MARINES stand plenty of inspections, but along the Washington street side of Chicago's city hall they reverse the procedure and do a little inspecting themselves as they get their shoes shined. The combination of two pretty girls and a prococious breeze draws the discerning gaze of nine pairs of eyes and nine admiring expressions. The girls appear unconcerned. (International)

Cooperstown Gets British 'Gremlin' American-Style

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y. — England's famous "gremlins" have gone west. G. A. Middleton, British cartoonist, has sent an original gremlin drawing to Cooperstown where it will be placed in the gremlin folklore collection being assembled by the New York State Historical association.

The Middleton cartoon, however, has a twist not usually found in gremlin drawings. It shows "Pilot" Roosevelt at the controls of a Congressional plane, grinning at four gremlins: Isolationist, Republican, Roosevelt-hater and anti-Lend-Lease.

HAMMOND, Ind.—The 151 seniors at George Rogers Clark high school claimed they were the first class in the country to graduate in a blackout. The alert signal sounded when diplomas were being handed out, but the school was prepared for the blackout. Black curtains were drawn and all lights extinguished except a few red and blue footlights on the stage, and the program went on.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Just at the moment that Hitler's tailors stopped making uniforms for the Africa Corps, because that "critter" doesn't exist any longer, Hollywood jumped into the breach. It was able to secure a perfect Africa Corps uniform brought back from northern Africa by Lt. Col. J. B. Barret of the Army to use as a model. It consists of a gray-green tunic, shirt, breeches, shorts and cap. Nearly all studios are now making copies for future models, while enough are being turned out by one studio to enable it to shoot a film in which the Africa Corps largely figures.
